WHERE WASHINGTON WAS BORN.

From the Pittsburgh Gazette.

A single granite shaft, a miniature Washington monument, at Waldfield farm on the lower Potomac, marks the spot where Washington was born and brought up. The old country mansion has been in the family for centuries, but the brick chimneys within whose arch four rounds could sit, and the corner stones, with a portion of the foundation, were saved. A succeeding generation tore down the chimney and the remnant of the walls in order to secure the bricks.

SCHOOL GIRLS.

'Tis a pretty age—that time in a girl's life when she has all the beauties of womanhood without the later lines of care and worry.

But here and there even among school girls appear pale and drawn faces.

Pale blood is at the bottom of the trouble and Scott's Emulsion can cure it.

Scott's Emulsion brings back the beauty to pale girls because it is blood food.

TODAY'S ATTRACTIONS.

ACADEMY—"The Fast Mail." Afternoon and night.
STAR—Rose Sybell London Belles company. Afternoon and night.

"The Volunteer Organizer."

To dramatize a popular book has been the work of many a playwright in the past, but some adapters have gone a few points farther in advance by adapting plays from songs that have struck the public's fancy. One very prominent playwright went so far back into ancient history as to take the old, old jingle "Captain Jack of the House of Lords" and wrote a story for the stage around it. The most notable success in this sort of work, however, has been "The Volunteer Organizer," the story of which, with brackets, has been taken by William H. Crane from his immensely successful song of the same title. The piece as played on the stage necessarily introduces several characters not found in the song, but they are all presented in such a natural manner that one almost wonders how the beautiful song prospered so well without them. The play will be seen at the Lyceum next Friday and Saturday.

Dot Karroll Company.

The Dot Karroll company which is billed to appear at the Academy of Music for three nights and three matinees commencing Thursday afternoon at 2.30, has a very interesting program on the road. The company, though new in these parts, has earned a wide reputation through the east. Miss Karroll, however, is well known to all the students of the Lyceum, for she has been "Peck's Bad Boy" and has an excellent opportunity as Maudie Brennan to show herself in the new part in the most realistic melodramas, "A Night in the House of Lords" which will be the opening bill for Thursday afternoon and night.

During the acts many charming specialties are introduced. Miss Karroll will introduce her celebrated character specialty of "The House of Lords" and, on Friday afternoon and night "Devil's Mine" will be the attraction and on Saturday matinee and night "Corner Grocery" will be the bill.

"The Gay Paree Bluesquers."

The following criticism relates to the company to appear at the Star Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and is clipped from a paper in a city in which they have already been successful.

"People were turned away at both performances at the Empire theater yesterday. 'The Gay Paree Bluesquers' proved to be very entertaining. The Bolle of 'Paree' is the title of the opening burlesque. It is quite funny and found great favor with the audience. A long but most excellent act included in its numbers such good bits as John and Willie in 'The Wall Street Broker'; White and White in a comely boxing match; Allen and Burton, musical kings; and the Rayford sisters, acrobatic dancers and were well received. The comedy sketch, 'The House of Lords' and the amusing sketch of hand tricks, proved him to be one of the best entertainers in the east."

"Mamma, what am that going to be?"
Still no answer, and tears filled the blue eyes and the red lips became pursed with perplexity. The eyes filled and ran over, and still the mother sat unmoved,
